

GrACE Teachers Growing Green Minds

Are you a secondary school teacher willing to contribute to a future where education becomes a catalyst for positive change?

Are you seeking innovative ways to improve learning about the EU among your pupils?

Are you eager to share your expertise and work on collaborative projects with international colleagues?

Embark on a transformative professional journey with GrACE as we strive to advance knowledge on the European Union and promote innovative pedagogies.

About GrACE:

GrACE

Green Europe: Active Citizenship and the Environment (2024-2026) is an international teacher training programme dedicated to equipping educators with both in-depth knowledge about the EU and its green policies and good instructional practices on climate education.

The project is carried out by the University of Trento, with the aim of empowering teachers to inspire their pupils towards active participation in democratic life, specifically by leveraging their interest in environmental issues.

Teachers as researchers

If you envision yourself in the role of peer educator, our free residential courses, with partial expense reimbursement, will give you an international academic perspective on teaching green issues, which you can later disseminate in your own educational context.

An exciting opportunity awaits the most dynamic participants: to join a pedagogical committee responsible for evaluating and revising the learning units created by our community of practice.

What GrACE does:

Webinars

2 series of 10 webinars providing cutting-edge insights into both EU green policies and teaching methodologies, drawing on the latest academic research
